

CHIEF CROKER BIDS DEFIANCE.

The Gravest Charges of Commissioner Sturgis Again Denied Without Reserve on the Final Cross-Examination.

TRAP TO CATCH HIM FAILS.

His Counsel Again Fights Against Rulings, Which He Indignantly Declares Are "Tricky" and a Serious Injury to the Fire Chief.

The cross-examination of Fire Chief Croker in the course of his trial on charges before Commissioner Sturgis was finished to-day. Determined effort was made by the prosecution to force the Chief to become their own witness, an attempt bitterly fought by John J. Delaney, the Chief's counsel.

Crocker's Full Denials.

The charges of the appropriation of public property, the acceptance of free transportation in violation of the State law and insubordination were all denied in the most decisive and convincing manner by the Chief. The insinuations of the prosecution in one instance excited his anger, but he controlled, his temper.

Charge four was the first one taken up. The charge alleges violation of the constitution in accepting free transportation. "I show you exhibit five," said Mr. Delaney, "please read it."

"I must make a stand right here," said Mr. Delaney. "We must have justice or I will not let this witness testify."

"But we make this witness ours and the Commissioner must be bound by his statement," said counsel.

"I know, but this is a trickster's play," shouted Croker's counsel. "You could have called him at the proper time."

Sturgis interposed.

"Abusive language will not be permitted in this court," ruled the Commissioner. "I have overlooked much in the past, but personal abuse of counsel will not be permitted."

"There are ways in which a man can be abused without the use of mere words," said counsel, "I am not expecting justice here, Mr. Commissioner. Don't think it."

The Commissioner then read several opinions from Mr. Delaney by saying that the strictest provisions of law were enforced against him during his cross-examination of witnesses for the prosecution, and that now that counsel was cross-examining witnesses for the defense the Commissioner's rulings suddenly relaxed.

The Commissioner entered a lengthy denial of counsel's charge and when Mr. Delaney asked permission to make further motion for the record relative to the subject the Commissioner ordered the stenographer to refrain from taking down anything that counsel said.

Mr. Delaney advised his client to refuse to answer.

"By advice of counsel I refuse to answer," said Croker. "Do you decline because you fear your answer will incriminate you?"

Mr. Delaney was up in an instant and said such questions were only meant to humiliate his client.

"I can answer that," said the witness angrily.

"No doubt," said counsel. "It is my advice not to. I am sorry, Chief, but I think it best," said counsel apologetically.

MORRIS PARK RACE TRACK, Oct. 23.—Features at Westchester this afternoon included the Meadowbrook Handicap, a steeplechase at three miles, for which gentlemen riders were to have the mounts, the horses to be qualified under the rules of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association. These sort of races are very interesting and more of them should be given. The gentlemen riders are experts in the saddle and while the quality of entries was not high to-day, the race promised to be interesting. The other features were the Ramapo Handicap, at a mile and a furlong, for three-year-olds, and the Fordham high weight handicap, this being the third of the series of interesting handicaps arranged by Mr. McCormick.

The remainder of the card was well made up, and as the weather and track conditions were ideal, the spectators expected an interesting afternoon's sport.
